Nattier Blue Voile Hand-embroidered.

The durable qualities of voile, coupled with its coolness and adaptability for all sorts of occasions has put it high on the modish list this season. It may be fashioned simply or elaborately, and the frock pictured shows it in a simple but effective style, relieved by hand-embroidery. The color is Nattier blue, and the embroidery is in a darker shade. The peg-top skirt, with stitchery in front, suggesting a yoke, is an excellent style for a slender figure, and the wide Capuchin collar is of white organdy.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

Thursday, July 13, 1916.

Jupiter is in a place powerful for good today, according to astrology. In the evening Uranus is slightly adverse. The day should be fortunate for those who push large enterprises and plan important undertakings. There is a good sign for South America and for commerce with some island people.

Jupiter gives help to men of legal training and logical mind, and all such should profit from this day's position of the stars.

Banquets, receptions and formal entertainments are subject to the best guidance. Buying should be lucky under this away of the stars. While speculation should not be encouraged, the seers say that this is an unusually favorable aspect for it.

In the evening persons with financial responsibilities should beware of misleading propositions. Uranus is believed to encourage deceit and fraud when in evil place.

September will be a month of added horrors and increased slaughter in the war, unless hostilities cease suddenly, but the seers give no promise of peace before another winter, although November should be a time of active negotiations. Paris is to be the scene of much excitement in the next few weeks. This prophecy has been several times repeated.

New York City comes under a government of the stars which is interpreted as likely to reveal corruption in public office and possible sensational legal action as a campaign measure.

Labor troubles in Europe as well as the United States are prognosticated, and they may be extraordinarily serious. Canada has the forecast of change in high office and brilliant achievement for a new official.

Fashions are to become a serious problem in the winter owing to some difficulty concerning imported articles, astrologers predict.

Persons whose birthdate it is should avoid change of any sort. Quarrels with business partners are to be avoided. Business affairs will engross more attention than usual.

Children born on this day have the augury of great good luck. These subjects of Cancer may be rather strong-minded and self-centered, but they are likely to be extremely successful.

SETTLES 31-YEAR-OLD GRUDGE.

Brooklynite Punches Jack of Man

Who Once Had Him Locked Up.

New York, July 12.—With a well-placed punch in the jaw, James Meegan, formerly of Jamaica, but now of Brooklyn, attempted to settle a thirty-one-year-old grudge and landed in the Jamaica Police Court.

Franklin B. Sprague, received the punch which Meegan's alarmed helped to even up for a ten-year sentence in the penitentiary for burglary, imposed because of the former's testimony. Meegan was held in $500 bail for the Court of Special Sessions.

PERSONALITIES I HAVE MET.

LESLIE CARTER.

HOW well I remember, a great many years ago when we were children, of running pell-mell around the corner to see the passing of Mrs. Leslie Carter in her big, imported, yellow automobile, with its imposing liveried footman and chauffeur! To have a car like Mrs. Carter's became the height of my ambition, and although I admired her as an actress and ever dreamed of being as magnetic as she, that yellow car always stood out foremost in my mind, and I determined by hard work, years of study and concentrated ambition at last to be the proud possessor of a Leslie Carter automobile!

At one matinee performance, while she was starting in that famous vehicle "Madame Du Barry," I was smuggled into the theater by one of the actresses playing a small role in the company. Even though I had been on the stage for several years, it was always a thrilling moment when I was allowed to slide in back of the properties and hide myself behind a wall of scenery to watch the entrance of a star. Once I had caught sight of her leaving her dressing room, I would scramble to a position where I could see the stage and the scenes enacted there.

At this particular matinee, an unfortunate but amusing incident occurred. It was during the scene where Madame Du Barry's wounded lover crashed through the windows of her boudoir and was hidden by the terrified courtesan in her own magnificent, four-poster bed, when a knock on the door warned her that the king, Louis XV, was demanding admittance.

Somehow or other, the lover's great, shining boots became entangled in the satin sheets and draperies of the bed, and though he tried frantically to withdraw them so they would be hidden from sight, the more he struggled the more of him was visible.

At first Mrs. Carter, delivering her great lines, did not notice this mishap, until the giggles of the audience brought her forcibly to the realization that something humorous had happened. Twice the king was given his cues for entrance, but, standing outside, he was warned by the property men that something had gone wrong on the stage and he had better delay his entrance until it was adjusted.

Mrs. Carter, never losing her pose, saw at a glance what had happened and subtly tried to throw a piece of tapestry over the bed to hide the actor, but in her haste she misjudged the distance, and as the king entered the tapestry fell to the floor and behold! the boots!

By this time the audience was quite uncontrollable, especially when it came to the lines where the suspicious king accused his mistress of having secreted some one in the room and she, with inspirational and wonderful words of cajolery, assured him he was mistaken.

From where I was standing in the wings, I could see the pupils of Mrs. Carter's eyes dilating and knew by her trembling lips she was determined to control this audience and save her scene. Lines which had never been written in the play she delivered in that marvelous voice of hers, with such force and such eloquence that the laughter died into giggles, and the giggles faded into wonderment which burst into mad applause when the curtain was finally rung down.

Few actresses have the power to carry semi-humorous scenes like these, and even Mrs. Carter, with her marvelous poise, was unnerved after the ordeal, for I remember her quick little gasps of breath when the curtain was rung up again and the audience madly applauded her.

Later "Du Barry" was produced in pictures, and I visited the studio in Hollywood while it was being taken.

Among her great successes which I personally saw and enjoyed were "The Heart of Maryland," "Magda," "Zaza," "Camille," and "Sappho."

Answers to Correspondents.

Mrs. A. J. H.—I never heard of the song "The Swallow and the Robin," but if Miss Belle Storey rang it you might write and ask her for it.

Peggy C.—Marguerite Clark is smaller than I. You know how pretty dimples are in pictures—look at Lilian Walker and Norma Talmage.

Ella S.—"Esmeralda" was taken in and around Yonkers, N. Y., last fall. Some of the scenes were taken in New York City.

M. F.—The fine wrinkles in the face can be hidden under a thick coating of grease paint—so can the freckles—but deep furrows will show up very noticeably on the screen.

Edna G.—Unless it is a costume play, we always have to supply our own wardrobe.

Rose H.—The company pays the traveling expenses even of the extra people when it is necessary to send them out of town.

Mary Pickford.

PLAN STREET WORK.

Commissioners Order Paving Jobs Through City.

Orders were issued by the Board of District Commissioners yesterday, providing for the paving of several streets, and for many improvements in the city proper and in the suburbs. The sum of $100 will be spent on the streets of Ivy City northeast, and $500 on the roads and streets of Brookland. In Lansdon $250 will be used.

Concrete steps are to be constructed in Garfield Park at an estimated cost of $1,200. An order providing for the construction of a service sewer in Quebec street, between Thirty-fifth street and Idaho avenue, which was issued June 4, 1915, was cancelled.

Asks $10,000 for Fall.

Albert E. Dabb filed suit in the District Supreme Court yesterday against the District and the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, to recover $10,000 damages for alleged personal injuries received on March 7, when he fell into a hole in the sidewalk.

COMMERCE GROWING.

Exports for Fiscal Year Total $4,345,000,000.

Exports for the fiscal year just ended with June amounted to $4,345,000,000, and the imports were valued at $2,180,000,000, making a total foreign trade for the year of over six and a half billion dollars, which is much larger than any previous total in the history of American commerce.

These figures were announced yesterday by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, of the Department of Commerce, with the explanation that the figures included for June are an estimate based on the final May statistics.

Wants Better Car Ventilation.

A complaint against the ventilation of Washington Railway and Electric cars was filed at the Public Utilities Commission by William S. Kenny, of 509 Howard street northwest, yesterday. Since the open cars have been running the company has removed the ventilating fans in the closed cars, he says.

A Word of Precaution.

JUST wherein lies the reason for the use of vegetable preparations for infants and children?

Why are any but vegetable preparations unsafe for infants and children?

Why are Syrups, Cordials and Drops condemned by all Physicians and most laymen?

Why has the Government placed a ban on all preparations containing, among other poisonous drugs, Opium in its variously prepared forms and pleasing tastes, and under its innumerable names?

These are questions that every Mother will do well to inquire about.

Any Physician will recommend the keeping of Fletcher's Castoria in the house for the common ailments of infants and children.
